

50% DEPOSITS, DEFERRED BALANCES AND TRANSPARENT EXPIRY DATES IN SPORTS SIMULATOR PURCHASES

We are delighted to announce that we have streamlined the process for initiating commercial orders of Sports Simulators by now accepting 50% deposits. This strategic adjustment allows for the commencement of manufacturing and shipping promptly upon receipt of the deposit. Notably, the remaining 50% balance payment is deferred, becoming due 30 days after the shipment date, as opposed to the conventional practice of pre-payment prior to shipment. This financial arrangement proves advantageous for commercial facilities managing their capital, as the distinctive simulator technology is placed in the hands of the customer even before the final 50% balance is settled. This unique approach instils heightened confidence among investors and banks, further fortifying the credibility of the entire procurement process. Additionally, our simulator dongles are equipped with pre-defined 30-day expiry date. This feature ensures that commercial clients can seamlessly finalize their payments, securing access to the lifetime sports simulator software. For the convenience of our valued clients, the main menus prominently display a countdown in the bottom left corner, indicating the number of days remaining before the software's 30-day expiry. This transparent approach simplifies the purchasing process, facilitating the possibility of multiple acquisitions simultaneously. We remain committed to providing a seamless and efficient experience for our commercial partners in the acquisition of cutting-edge sports simulation technology. Click to View the Sports Simulator Blog.

